Join us for a day of savoring Santa Cruz Valley heritage foods! The Santa Cruz Valley Heritage Alliance and the University of Arizona's Southwest Center invite you to participate in our heritage foods festival on Saturday November 22, 2008. The festival includes educational materials from food-related non-profits, and food samples and sales from farmers, ranchers, restaurants, artists, and other producers of heritage foods and crafts. In addition to vendors, the festival includes scheduled events such as presentations, music and dance, and hands-on food demonstrations.

Please Note: Please provide your own 6-ft. table and chairs. Electricity is only available in limited locations, so please let Vanessa know ASAP if you need electricity.

Temporary Food (Health) Permits: According to the Santa Cruz County Health Department, if a vendor is selling whole produce and NOT cutting it and NOT giving samples, no permit is necessary. If a vendor is selling pre-packaged or wrapped candy and snacks that do not normally need to be held cold, they do not need to have a permit. Examples being, candy, chips, bottled water, canned or bottled soda. Sealed jars of jellies, pickles, and vegetables that have been manufactured in a permitted facility and properly labeled do not require a permit.

Any OPEN, EXPOSED food must have a permit. Or, any sealed product that normally would be kept cold, such as ice cream, milk, meats, cheese must have a permit. Permits are $75 from the Santa Cruz County Health Department 520-375-7900 and must be obtained 2 weeks prior to the festival.
